Fashion Whims—Tulle Is the Rage—Summer Tailoring—Bleaching a Discolored Throat—Use the Complexion Brush—Special Astringents and Creams—Skin Food Remedy For Dandruff—Prevent Scalp From Being Too Dry.

FASHION WHIMS.

Dainty little sachet cards in a variety of scents are selling for ten cents apiece.

Ribbed linens are taking especially well and have assumed the place for ribbed accorded to plain weaves.

Red and white appear in many models. Materials in voile and marquisette and summer silk varying shades of red from a cerise to a deep maroon are in mode. The patterns are small and neat and the grounds well covered. Charming are the small posy patterns.

Tulle is the rage. It is used for trimming hats, in making neck ruffles for vestees, ruffles deep or narrow, as a foundation for net and lace, as neck and wrist ruffles.

Over a well-covered ground of white silk, with closely set polka dots in blue, was worn one of the very new sleeveless boleros of red shantung, slashed away in a deep "U" displaying much of the blouse beneath. Flat Venice lace in a narrow edging was laid around the bolero, which ends oddly in a lapped-over style on the left side.

Summer tailoring has gone on record as making a specialty of gowns which closely resemble suits. Such an imported model was developed in rose pink charmeuse satin with a cut-away edge on the corsage and another on the skirt, giving the impression of a coat in front. A black velvet girdle threaded its way on the raised waistline and hung in one wide scarf to the left side. The skirt was cut in two pieces, center seam and with rounded corners, having a decided upward cut, leaving the skirt beneath plenty of opportunity to show itself.

BLEACHING A DISCOLORED THROAT

Why do we see a fairly good complexion on some women, and a yellow throat, with the skin shriveled, and (we must admit it) neglected in appearance?

This combination is not unusual at all if you have observed the fact.

The face is bathed, creamed, patted with toilet water and lastly, powdered, when necessary, is it not? Now then, how many women take the same pains with their throat in bestowing all these attentions upon it?

Comparatively few can qualify on that score. Of course, the neck is bathed, but it does not come in for the beauty making which keeps it soft, white and shapely in most cases.

It is not surprising then to see a yellow, somewhat scrawny throat, with a good complexion. The effect is striking, especially so since the reign of the low collar line, which now descends into a deep V and is universally worn by young girls and their grandmothers.

Use the Complexion Brush.

The complexion brush should be used on the neck once a day. A soap may be used or a meal. A cleansing cream should be massaged into the skin on retiring and before going into the open for sun exposure. A good liquid that acts also as a cleansing agent and astringent and gentle bleach should be daily applied.

The entire surface of the neck should be covered, going around the hair line and back of the ears, rounding out the treatment so that it will include any collar style.

Special Astringents and Creams. Lemon juice is a simple bleach and when irritating to the skin a little witch hazel may be used to dilute its strength.

A few drops of benzoin in the rinsing water is beautifying, rendering the skin soft and giving it a certain freshness.

Cucumber in any form, raw or in creams or lotions has a bleaching effect.

An especially good formula for bleaching contains: One and a half grains of citric acid; 5-12 ounces of hot water; 1 ounce of borax and 1-2 ounce of glycerine. This is allowed to stand overnight and then strained off in the morning. Where glycerine is too irritating, as it is with some skins, it may be put in after straining and a few drops of essence of rose added.

A good astringent cream requires an ounce of benzoated oxide of zinc ointment and 2 drams of strong spirits of camphor.

Massage is one of the most effective ways of fading out any discoloration and at the same time builds up the sagging tissues and makes for contour.

PIMPLE CREAM—USE OF ALCOHOL.

Lanolin, one and one-quarter ounces; oil of sweet almonds, one and one-quarter ounces; sulphur of precipitate, one and one-quarter ounces; oxide of zinc, five drams; violet extract, one dram.

Alcohol too frequently applied to the skin has a drying effect. I think the cream, with care of the diet, should conquer the blemishes. But you must have patience and persistence.

Do not pick them, gently bathe and wipe the skin. Avoid pastry, sweets and rich food.

REGAINING HEALTH.

Omit tea, coffee and all stimulants for a month or six weeks and see if the heart fluttering still continues after that. Be careful of your diet. "Fletcherize" your food, avoid fatigue excitement and burping. Take as much rest as you can get and take a daily walk, but not long enough to tire you. Have your room well ventilated at night. Be sure that you do not indulge in indigestible food, for this may be the cause of your trouble.

CAMPHOR WATER

Use camphor water lotion, both as a skin refiner and cleaner. Put on with a piece of soft muslin. It will cleanse thoroughly; if the face is gone over thoroughly, turning the cloth frequently so the soil may not be rubbed back in.

Once the skin is cleansed a rub with a fresh cloth wet with the lotion is made, the last application drying in. Morning and night is often enough except when actual dirt must be removed.

Hard water is bad for the skin, and if you use the lotion there will be no occasion for water. Should any roughness appear the application of very little cold cream will smooth it.

TO BLEACH NECK.

When the pimples have disappeared use the following bleaching lotion: A preparation for whitening the neck is made from two ounces of pure strained honey, half an ounce each of glycerine and rectified spirits, one and a half drams of citric acid and two drops of musk. The honey and glycerine are put together into a china cup, set into hot water to warm until stirring mixes them well. The acid goes into the rectified spirits to melt, when the two mixtures are combined. This is applied night and morning, rubbing in well.

FORMULA FOR SKIN FOOD

Any skin food is greasy. It is not a tissue builder otherwise. You might try this, containing less grease: 120 grains of French gelatine, an ounce and a half of glycerine and half an ounce of water. The gelatine, cut into small pieces, is put into a preserving jar and the water poured over. The jar is then placed in a kettle of hot water and stays until the gelatine is dissolved. The liquid is strained, and the glycerine, warm, is added, also a drop of attar of roses. The preparation, while liquid, is poured into little dishes to mold. It is a jelly when hard, and the skin should be moistened before using it. It may be used as any cold cream.

REMEDY FOR DANDRUFF.

An excellent dandruff remedy is made by combining tincture of cantharides, one ounce; liquid ammonia, one dram; glycerine, one-half ounce; oil of thyme, one-half ounce; rosemary oil, one-half dram. Mix all together with six ounces of rosewater. Rub the scalp thoroughly with the preparation until the dandruff entirely disappears.

PREVENT SCALP FROM BEING TOO DRY

The outdoor life led by women, while an excellent thing so far as the general health is concerned, robs the scalp of its essential oil where exposure is prolonged and the hairless habit is formed.

The scalp becomes drawn and hard, the hair roots are starved and in time the hair falls. The sun also burns the hair, rendering it harsh and discolored.

A covering of some description should always be worn over the head to keep the sun's rays from directly striking it.

A persanol is far cooler than a hat, and serves quite as well.

To offset the drying effects of the sun and heated air, a scalp food should be regularly employed.

Liquid vaseline applied with an eye dropper is one of the simplest and best. Care should be taken that the liquid reaches the scalp and not the hair, otherwise it will become greasy and heavy looking.

Always thoroughly brush the hair before using any cream or liquid, removing all tangles; then part the hair in strands; this simplifies the work.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflammation of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a running ear, or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out, and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. Nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surface.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

BROKE PLEDGE NEVER TO DRINK

St. Louis, July 26.—With insurance against temperamental incompatibility and against marital infidelity already on the market, Mrs. Belle Kinsolving of Marshall county, Kentucky, has gone the eccentric one better and insured herself against abuse by her husband when he has been drinking.

In a suit entered in the United States district court here yesterday she seeks to collect $10,000 from H. P. Kinsolving, the husband, who she alleges broke his pledge. The couple were married in Kentucky, January 19, 1905, and on June 1 of the same year, while visiting in St. Louis, Kinsolving struck and otherwise mistreated his wife, her petition says.

Mrs. Kinsolving returned to the home of her parents, but within two weeks her husband, who was then postmaster at Malden, Mo., sought a reconciliation. This was affected through a contract in which the husband agreed to forfeit to her $10,000 in case he should abuse her again, the petition says.

During the same month Mrs. Kinsolving alleges her husband violated his promise and she was again forced to return to her parents.

SECURITIES IN THE LOCAL MARKET

Following is the weekly financial and market letter of John C. Cutler, Jr., & Co.

The usual midsummer quietness is noted in various lines of business throughout the United States at the present time, but the general expectation of good crops stimulates confidence in the future, and it is believed that fundamental conditions rest upon a sound basis.

In Utah the business situation is fairly satisfactory and better than in many of the other states on account of the variety of the many different resources of the state.

The volume of business throughout the state continues to average about the same as a year ago.

Interest rates for money are firm, although the banks are supplying their customers with funds for their regular demands, but speculation is not encouraged.

Local securities remain steady, with only a few slight changes in prices. The following comparison of prices in 1899 and today is interesting:
